

Hepatica nobilis var. nobilis Kyrvingberg

There are always stories about plants, this one I heard about the blue double variety Kyrvingberg:

Found at a farm in central Norway on an island in the Trondheimfjord, this told me about 20 years ago a Hepatica collector from Norway. Now a Swede wrote me that the locals there discuss about the spelling, there are now several spellings to choose from: 1) Kyrvingberg (probably best known) 2) Kyrvinberg and still 3) Kurvinberg. All this makes it always interesting to deal with these things, the wonderful plant does not mind, it delights us under each of the names all the time.

Translated with www.DeepL.com/Translator (free version)

Foto © Magnar Aspaker 230422